Second Event: Chris Connelly, Science and Mediumship June 12th, 2021 1-3pm EST $50 per person. Register to attend.

This is a developmental session with a difference, as we will step through each of these seven major characteristics proposed. Using exercises to explore how each characteristic may be integrated into traditional Spiritualist methods of unfoldment so to further benefit our mediumship. This session isn't promising to make you the world's best medium, but will provide you with the knowledge to help you be the best example of a medium you can be.

About Chris Connelly: Chris has accumulated over twenty years involved in Spiritualism, working all over the UK and aboard demonstrating and hosting workshops on topics surrounding science and the unfoldment of mediumistic abilities. With a particular research interest in the altered states of consciousness pertaining to the Spiritualists' Trance and the identification of the subjective experience. As well as a Spiritualist medium holding certificates for demonstrating and speaking from the Spiritualists' National Union (SNU), Chris also holds the Diploma Advanced from the SNU for research exploring physiological measures that could be used to identify the presence of genuine trance demonstrations. Outside and away from Spiritualism, Chris has over 30 years as a research engineer, working in UK Space industry where he is responsible for the development of imaging technologies used on Earth Observation missions. Chris holds Masters degrees in Engineering and in Psychology, and is currently pursuing a doctorate at Canterbury Christ Church University where he is exploring the role of cognitive executive functions within mediumship.
